FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SRS Completes Migration of AmerisourceBergen Customers to AS2 (Internet EDI) Protocol for Perpetual Inventory Ordering

Caro, MI (April 15, 2010) – SRS Pharmacy Systems today announced the successful migration of its AmerisourceBergen customers from traditional dial-up perpetual inventory ordering over to AS2 (Internet EDI).

AS2, which is short for Applicability Statement 2 and is also known as EDIINT or EDI over the Internet, is a specification that defines a method to securely and reliably transfer EDI data using the HTTP protocol and is one of the most popular methods for transporting data securely and reliably over the Internet.

Companies use AS2 for 2 reasons.

The first reason is that, by definition, AS2 ensures that their business data is secure and that it was sent reliably. Because the definition of the AS2 specification mandates the use of MDNs (receipts) companies can know without a doubt that their trading partner received their data. Likewise, because the specification defines the use of signing and encrypting, companies can rest assured that their data is safe.

The second reason that companies use AS2 is that it removes "the middle man". Historically EDI data was sent using Value Added Networks (VANs). VANs are an added cost that is eliminated when companies are able to send directly to each other.

Highlights of the Tri Maxx® vial include:

- Triangular shape makes the vial easier to hold and more stable
- 30 percent more space for imprinting messages provided by third panel
- Larger print size is easier to read and more FDA compliant
- Customizable third-panel used for in-store promotions or national brand coupons
- 360° marketing assistance provided through Tri State's QTrak™ program
- All three bottle sizes — 75cc, 120cc and 200cc — use the same caps
- Two-component, one cap C/R system for all bottle sizes reduces inventory
- Seven SKU C/R and non-C/R system frees up bin space and streamlines filling
- Larger size prevents dispensing one prescription in multiple bottles
